Saying Goodbye

Monday, August 22, was a happy and sad day. Nathan Small and Shelby Samuels left for Mt. Edgecombe. On the same plane, Hansja Braam's husband, Don, and their oldest son, Joey, arrived in Platinum. Most of the school showed up for these events.

When staff went into Bethel for the DWIS Quyurramta (08/1-9/2/16), they were told to bring a poster to represent their school. Being the smallest school, we took the biggest banner.

All the students contributed to the making of the sign.

Everyone, at the conference, remarked on the size of the sign.

HAPPY HALLOWEEN

All the students were very excited for Halloween. Many of them stayed after school to have their face painted, while others went home to get their costumes on. They all looked great and had a ton of fun.

A beautiful day for a fire drill.

The students waited four years for winter to return and it did in February. The snow drifts were so deep they couldn't be driven through. It blocked doors into school and the shop.

The wind was gusting at 28 knots from the East, and blew the snow into the school's nooks and crannies. This is the door to the shop.

It blew it under the wall in the hallway.

It blew it under the wall in the Elementary classroom.

It blew it under the door of the Principal's house.

March

The 17th was Lexi's birthday, St. Patrick's Day, a school in-service day, and a visit from Carlton Kuhns. All of the students were at school completing work to bring up their grades. We decided to have an impromptu party.

On Friday the 31st, I decided to return some borrowed items to Goodnews. Hansja wanted to buy groceries, and Norman James wanted to buy gas. It was snowing but didn't seem very bad. Halfway across the bay it became whitout conditions. We barely made it to Goodnews following snow machine tracks. Heading back to Platinum, the wind was blowing the snow directly at the windshield and clung to it. It was a total whitout again. We had Norman take over driving because he has some idea where we were. Half way across, it started to clear up, which made it much easier to see where we were going. The entire trip took four hours and thanks to Norman, we made it safely home.

In case you don't recognize them.

Good Friday & Easter Potluck

Friday, April 14th, the school held a community potluck. Most of the community was out seal or geese hunting so those who showed up trickled in. We had some great ham bones to cook a pot of beans, for lunch, the next week.
